You know I said that I could quilt almost as fast as two of you. The reason is, I take care of my hands. One half of you are too proud to do this. — You would not be caught putting a glove on to sweep, or hoe. or weed in the garden, because you think it would look as thought you wanted to be fine ladies. If you see any one taking care of her hands, or careful to wear a sun hennet to preserve her complexion, you say she is "proud and stuck up." But it is you who are proud-too proud to think you require any care to look nice. You have ever you can, by way of being independent. Your hands grow as stoff and hard as if you Hathaway, and Four Books Co. held a plough and swung a scythe, and scarcely feel it in your fingers. This is wrong. There are many things which women ought to do, which require their hands to be soft and pliable, and they should be careful to keep them so, in order to make them useful. Every woman who lives in the contry should knit herself a pair of woolen gloves, with long fingers closed at the tops—no milt, to let the fingers get hard. There should be a price of ribbed work at the wrist to make them stay on. When you use your hoe, rake or broom, put on your gloves—when you take hold of a sixteen had complexions like alabaster, and at twenty-six their faces would look like a runet bag that had hung six weeks in the cinney corner. One reason of this is, they do not wear a bonnet to protect them from the sun Another reason is the habit they have of baking their faces before a wood fire. I have seen women stand before a great reasting fire and cook, until I thought their brains were as well stewed as the chickens; and they would get so used to it they would make no attempt to shield their innance of the liberal shar heads from the heat. Nay, they would sit solicited, Onawa Aug. 6, 1847. by the hour; and this is one of the reas as why American women grown old, withered, and wrinkled, fifteen years before their time.—But another, and the greatest reason is, your diet. People in this country live too well, and ext too much hot bread and meat. Country people usually eat richer food than those who live in the cities and that is a reason why, with all their fresh air. their average age is little greater than that of city folks. Thousands of beautiful, blooming country girls make old, sallow-faced women of themselves before they are thirty, by drinking coffee, smoking to-bacco, and eating hot bread. - They shorten their lives by these practices about as much as city ladies with their fashionable follies. I do not know what you think about it, girls, but I think it is about as much a sin for wo-men to get old, brown, withered faces, by eating too much, as it is for men to got red noses by drinking to mutch. Acry few people think it is a disgrace to have the bilious fevor; but I would just as leave the doctor would lell me that I was drunk as that I was bilious. The one would come from drinking too much, the other from sating too much; and where is the the diffor it affects health and life, and the reason way I take about your complexion in speaking of it is, every body loves to look well whether they will acknowledge it or not. Now, people cannot look well unless they are well; and no one can be well very long who does not try to take care of herself.
